I have been by the INEOS Chocolate Bayou Site in Alvin, TX 3 days in a row and the amount of soot being release into the atmosphere from 2 flare stacks is crazy. It is clouding the entire sky and homes for miles around and does not look safe to breathe. I have attached a few photos that do not do the amount of soot justice.

Subject: Emptying freon into the air we breath
Date: Tuesday, September 22, 2015 12:55:48 PM

I'm pretty sure this illegal, working for Arctic Glacier Inc.(Grayling, MI). When we do work on compressors on machines just hook up hose and let freon out into air. I've done this to hundreds of machines. I have no hvac training or cert. No one at this plant is certified either. I have pics and some video. This has been going on for years here at this plant. Is there anything that can be done?

Hello, my name is (b) (6) Privacy [REDACTED] and I live in Parks, AZ, Maine Townsite. I would like to bring something to your attention.

FNF Construction out of Tempe, AZ is trying to purchase 38.4 acres in our small residential neighborhood for the purpose of creating a mining operation. In this neighborhood are several families who have young children and elderly as well, some of the with breathing issues. This area has only dirt roads and are maintained by the residents, the county will not touch them. FNF wishes to create a mining operation with all of the things that go with that. Big heavy equipment, and we do not even have roads to carry that load. The silicon dust from such an operation is a hazard and the proximity of this property makes the residents more prone to inhale this substance since there is not enough clearance for it to duly dissipate.

It is also about 100 feet from a BNSF train switch; I shudder to think what could happen if they start blasting and their equipment shifts and causes a derailment. I can tell you there will be some very rich lawyers at the end of that debacle.

At Coconino County they tell us their hands are tied due to the fact that this property is over the five acre rule where they can govern what happens. This is due to the 1830 rule that states such, but why on earth is that still the rule of law since we all agree that we live in very different world now? It would take five acres just to make the hole.

There is at least one gravel pit they could use that is already open for business and that one is a short drive North of Williams, AZ towards the Grand Canyon. It has plenty of product they could use. We fear that if this pit opens, being near I-40, that this will indeed doom small communities like ours that are situated near an interstate. This is not fair to the residents who purchase property without having clue what could be coming to their neighborhoods.

We have tried to discuss this issue with FNF but they have pretty much told us too bad. Really? Especially when one of them had the audacity to say they would not want it in their neighborhood? Well neither do we!!!

If this goes thru, Parks, AZ has the potential to become a ghost town. What a shame.

I speak on behalf of the citizens of this little community. Could you please come visit and see what we are up against? We are concerned about our wells and on this property is a natural spring that could just go away if this happens. There are plenty of deer, elk, and other wildlife that would be affected. The noise level could be a definite problem. Our homes could be affected by the blasting as well as our septic tanks and I tell you I spent a fortune on mine and would "be bent" if this caused a problem. That is how close this thing is to the residents here.

Please, if at all possible, can you advocate on our behalf? We are not trying to stop a land sale, we are not trying to keep folks from exercising their free rights, we are fighting for our community, our way of life, our health, our children, and our own rights. When companies want to establish themselves, they need to be respectful and consider those around them

Thank you.

Respectfully,
